We,
The Class of 1981,
Dedicate
This Yearbook
To
David Dannels
And
Rebecca Nelson.

Rebecca Nelson came to us in the second quarter of sophomore year, when our first teacher got sick of us and left. Surprisingly, she was able to put up with us for the remainder of the year, and then go as far as to teach U.S. History junior year. She entertained us with Gregorian chants and low-quality jokes, which always held our attention. Throughout those years, we came to develop a fondness for her patience and understanding.

Exhibiting a great sense of humor, David Dannels quickly became one of our favorite teachers during the junior year. His unconventional teaching methods were a pleasant change from the ordinary. He kept his light attitude even when burdened with his own personal problems. His crazy antics in the classroom taught us the principles of physics, while removing the tediousness of boring labs, and earned him the title, "Bad Muffin."

For these reasons, we dedicate this yearbook to these two teachers who have made out stay at Uni so much more enjoyable.

Katie Schowenweiss was the Math project secretary.

Sue Winking spent another year as the staff stenographer.

Pat Bandy was curriculum lab secretary.

Karen Moon was the secretary in the counseling office.

Administration

Alan Purves once again was Director of the Curriculum Lab and taught a creative writing course.

Warren Royer was our principal.

George Herts was an all-around nice guy and our vice-principal.

Counseling

Neeta Vijaykar was a counselor.

LuAnn Smith directed counseling.

Judy Osgood was all around nice.

Patty Gatto headed peer counseling and group and once again was cool.

Susan Welch was Library Clerk.

Leslie Simms was assistant librarian.

Joan Van Nord was the head librarian and sponsored National Honor Society.

Librarians

Barbara Gutowsky taught juniors about tragedies.

Adele Suslick debated with the seniors.

Judith Perrin taught Freshman and was the drama sponsor.

Liz Baker taught the sophomores and was a nice person.

Charlene Tibbetts taught Subbies and headed English.

English

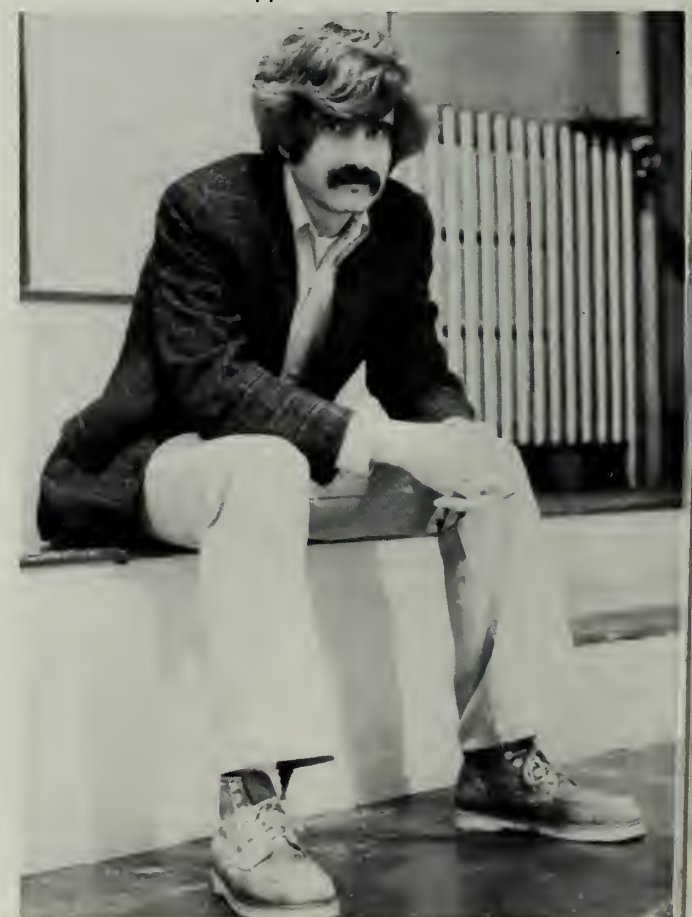
Math

Steve Young wore his earring and taught math to all the subs and most of the freshmen.

Curtis McKnight, once again, headed the math department.

Robert Davis taught some upperclassmen calculus and remained Paul's father.

Vance Christiaanse (Mr. C) taught math to freshmen and finite math and calculus to upperclassmen.



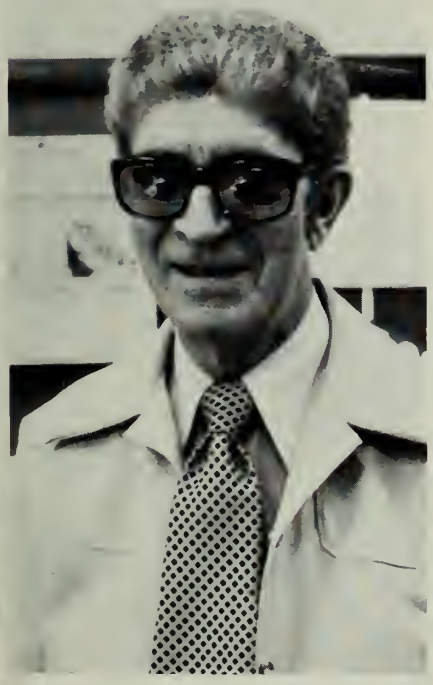
Pat McLoughlin taught Geometry, Calc., sponsored the juniors and was asst. coach for Girls' B-ball, and never even complained.

Joanne Wheeler taught juniors U.S. history and feminism.

John Withgott taught about East Asia to a few seniors.

Margie Leys taught sophomores geography first semester.

Chris Butler, along with teaching sub and freshman social studies, taught Latin III.



Wilson Dwyer headed social studies and taught consumer education and geography.

Rebecca Nelson taught Social Studies to the freshmen first semester.

Social Studies

Foreign Languages

Anita Hittle taught French to the other subbies.

Stan Shinall taught French to subbies for the umteenth time.

Carol Bond was the Head of the Foreign Language Department and taught FLIP.

Marilene Haidu, poor woman, taught French to everyone but subs and seniors and was unusually sympathetic.

Phil Cooper taught Russian for sophomores through seniors and ran Lang. Lab.

Connie Curtain taught subs and freshmen Russian.

Alicia Henry taught German to freshmen and sophomores.

Chris Shea taught Latin to subbies and sophomores.

Donna Zych taught subs and sophomores German.

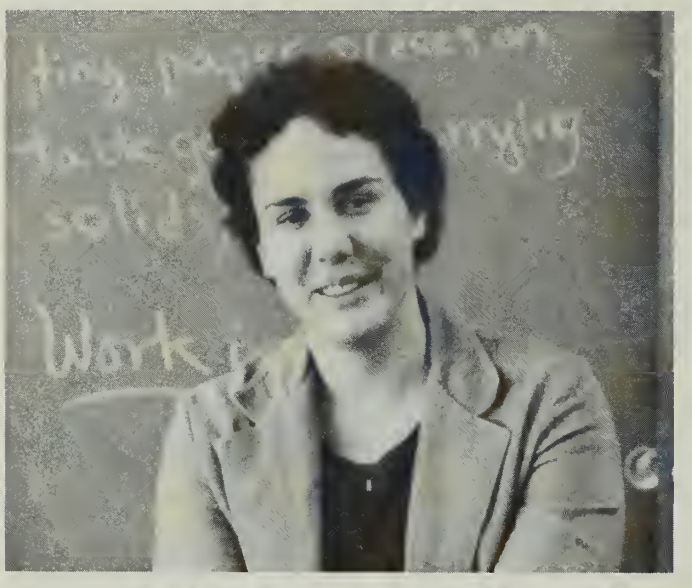
Foreign Languages

Science

John Boyd taught Biology 9A and 9B to the freshmen.

David Dannels was a great physics teacher for the juniors.



Ruth Poling-Kinder taught Chemistry to the sophomores.

Richard Frazier was the poor fellow who taught senior biology.

Ray Boehmer headed the Science Department and taught sub-bies.

Susan Zaccardi doubled as cheerleading sponsor and Freshman Biology teacher.

Peter Kimble taught freshmen Computer Science and let people use his office.

John Turner had the never-ending task of keeping the halls clean.

Ruthann Whobrey again taught typing and made 8th hour bearable.

Andra Johnson made art a worthwhile class and sponsored this year's yearbook.

Richard Palmer directed mixed chorus, beginning music, madrigals, and couldn't decide whether or not he wanted a beard.

Michelyn McKnight taught instrumental music.

Fine Arts

Physical Education

Cori Rizzo headed the P.E. Department and coached the new Gymnastics team.

Not Pictured: Marta Van Loan

Guy Dirkin taught P.E. and was a jolly good chap.

Jimmy Mayeda and Paul Parker coached the Sub Basketball team this year.

Michael McCollom kept his hands full this year at Uni. He coached Cross-Country, J.V. Basketball, and Track along with being a P.E. teacher and Athletic Director.

Thomas Ball lent his expertise to the Uni High Girls' Varsity Basketball team.

Mike Lindemann was the Varsity Basketball coach this year and led the team to several victories.

Organizations

Student Council

Student Council had their traditional Monday lunchtime meetings, and accomplished quite a bit this year. Officers were: Mike Levy, President; Paul Travis, Vice-President; Steve Rader, Treasurer; Nancy Brown, Secretary; and Steve Berkson, Parliamentarian. They got rid of MORB and Transportation Committee, and debated the pros and cons of allocating money to different committees, along with making decisions about the school's Student-related problems. Student Council was sponsored by George Herts.

Executive Committee

The Executive Committee met only a few times this year. The committee exists basically for organizational reasons, and they organized Student Council's business very well.

Clockwise: Nancy Brown, George Herts,Paul Travis, Mike Levy, Steve Rader.

Elections and Finance Committees

From Bottom: Beverly Joy, Ginta Zvilius, Theo Merritt, Grace Williams, Andrea Talley.

Elections committee ran the various elections that were held during the year. Beverly Joy and Grace Williams were the chairpersons.

Finance Committee allocated money to various organizations.

SFAC

SFAC met every other Wednesday in Mr. Royer's office, and talked about mysterious things.

Book Bar

Book Bar was co-chaired by Ginta Zvilius and Theo Merritt. They were also, incidentally, the only members. Through Book Bar, students had the chance to sell and/or buy used texts — often getting a better deal than at Follett's.

Clockwise: Ginta Zvilius, Theo Merritt.

Milk Committee

Milk Committee supplied our school with both regular and chocolate flavors of that delectable ambrosia called MILK — not to mention the equally superb orange drink. It operated during lunch in the kitchen. Angie Friedman was the chairman.

Seated: Sarah Williams, Alex Wengert. Standing: Nancy Brown, Beverly Joy, Stephanie Wengert, Peter McDowell, Angie Friedman.

Chess

This year, both J.V. and Varsity chess teams won 1st at the Roanoke Benson Invitational, won the league championship, and intend to win State Competitions and go on to the National Tournament. With their hard-earned money, they bought new chess sets and clocks. Andrew Kolodziej was the President, Dave Sprenkle was the coach, and Chris Butler was the sponsor.

Madrigals

Madrigals met twice a week this year, and was directed by Mr. Palmer. They sang at four nursing homes in December, participated in the IHSA music contest, and in three concerts.

Chorus

Chorus met three days a week and was also directed by Mr. Palmer. They performed in Uni's winter and spring concerts, and in Chorfest. They sang music of all types, from all periods, and had a lot of fun doing so.

Lounge

This year, Lounge was co-chaired by David and Chimene, Theo was treasurer, Steve Berkson was secretary, and George Herts was the sponsor. The committee took care of the jukebox, and kept the lounge in order. They also had quite a few clean-ups.

Peer Counseling

Peer Counseling met once a week in Patty Gatto's office, to talk, learn how to counsel, and eat lunch. Patty was the supervisor, and Adrienne Osborn was the secretary. The Peer Counselors were always there to help students with their problems.

Handbook and Orientation

This year, Handbook and Orientation was chaired by Betsy Brotherson. They organized the Orientation picnic and Orientation Tea. They also put out the Uni Handbook, which contains almost everything there is to know about Uni, including the floorplan.

Agora Week

The committee worked very hard (as usual) and put together another fun-filled, educational, and relaxing week of unorthodox classes. Steve Rader was the group's fearless leader, and Mr. Ball was the sponsor.

Seated: Fred Steinberg, David Brown. Standing: Steve Rader, David Futrelle, Ginta Zvilius, Ann Liu, Sara Hymowitz, Peter Appel.

National Honor Society

This is the society's fourth generation in Uni's history. Its presence here is due to Mr. Renner (an ex-vice principal) who noted that most high schools had these societies, but that Uni did not. The situation was promptly rectified.

Unique

Unique is Uni's literary magazine. It contains poetry and prose contributed by students. The members of Unique edited everything and put the magazine together under the watchful eye of Dr. Purves, the sponsor.

Gargoyle

Gargoyle is the school newspaper. It was edited by Mike Dorning and Steve Rader during the first semester. Several improvements were made, such as the addition of pictures. Second semester, in accordance with tradition, a new set of editors took over: Carolyn Shapiro and Yukio Nishida.

Darkroom Committee

The people in the Darkroom Committee (sponsored by Andra Johnson and chaired by Paul Travis) printed and developed pictures for the yearbook and Gargoyle.

Clockwise: Steve Berkson, Fred Steinberg, Holly Molnar, Paul Travis, Theo Merritt, Don Barnhart.

Yearbook Sellers

These industrious people sold as many yearbooks as they could. Due to their creative marketing techniques, this year's circulation was one of the largest ever.

Clockwise: Cherie Travis, Stephanie Wengert, Holly Molnar, Angie Johnson, Clarita Uchendu, Paul Travis.

Seated: Holly Bullamore, Paul Travis. Standing: Steve Berkson, Fred Steinberg, Theo Merritt.

Yearbook Photographers

The yearbook photographers took all the pictures printed in this book (plus many you'll never see). They all put in a lot of time towards taking and developing the pictures for this book.

Yearbook Staff

The yearbook staff worked many long, hard hours this year from September to February during school, on weekends, and after school, often late into the night. The staff started out with about 16 people, but as time went on, and the going got rough, the staff dwindled to this size of 6 dedicated students and sponsor, Andra Johnson. Paul Travis was the Editor-in-Chief.

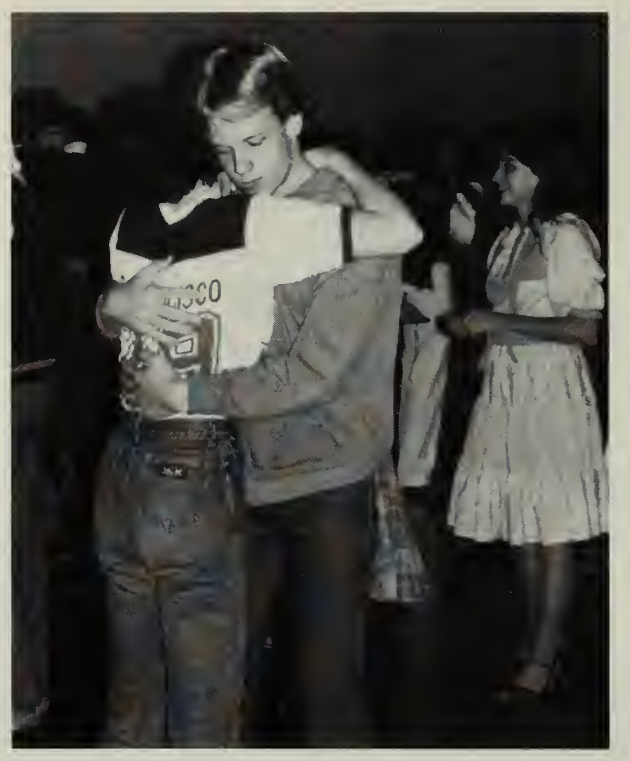
Events

Orientation Picnic

The orientation picnic was held the very first weekend of the school year, despite the rain. Numerous frisbee matches and a football game were organized, and everybody had fun. The pavilion was being used so the picnic was held out in the rain but everybody enjoyed themselves anyway. Betsy Brotherson was the organizer and Chris Shea was the faculty sponsor. The parent sponsors were Mr. and Mrs. Schult.

Howdy Hop

The Howdy Hop took place on the third weekend of the school year. Ted Purves and Paul Travis were the D.J.'s in charge of providing entertainment and music for the evening. Everyone danced to the beat of New Wave, hard rock and minimal disco sounds. The faculty sponsor was Patty Gatto and Mr. and Mrs. Ganus were the faculty sponsors for the evening.



Turkey Trot

The Turkey Trot was sponsored by the Senior Class. As usual, the dance was D.J.'ed by Ted Purves and Paul Travis, and they played a wide assortment of Punk, New Wave, Top 40, and general Rock and Roll.

The Halloween Dance (not pictured) was also D.J.'ed by Ted Purves and Paul Travis. A number of contests were held. Andrew Stewart won the Costume contest dressed as a very authentic-looking Indian. Winners in the Couples Dance contest were James Peltz and an inverted Brenda Brinkerhoff. The New Wave contest was won by David Odenweller and Valli Plog. Everyone enjoyed themselves immensely. The dance was run by Lisa Kaler and Holly Molnar, and was sponsored by Mike McCollum and Pat McGloughlin.

Fall Play

This year, a more modern version of the classic play, "Antigone," was performed. Julie Stenzel occupied the starring role as Antigone. There were four performances made. The play was directed by Mrs. Perrin.

Christmas Dance

The Christmas Dance this year was organized by the Sophomore Class. Mrs. Rondon, and Mr. and Mrs. Baker were the chaperones, while Mr. Butler was the sponsor. The band (Alias) played mostly top 40 to a large turnout at the Illini Union. The relaxing atmosphere and friendly interaction gave the students a much needed rest. Thanks to Maggie Williams, Stephi Wengert, and Julie McMillan, the Christmas Dance was a big success.

Christmas Party

The annual surprise Christmas Party, to noone's surprise, was once again held at Uni Gym. It was highlighted by the Senior gifts, teacher's skits, musical performances and FOOD. This event, as in the past, marked the end of the first semester and the start of the Christmas Break.

Big Show

Agora Week

Agora Week was held the first week of February. As usual, many interesting classes were taught, by students, parents, and faculty members. A camping trip was offered where students went spelunking, bird-watching, and on the Teams course. A select few also enjoyed an evening of strip poker. Back at school, courses ranged from philosophy to Italian cooking to French Hair-Braiding.

Sports

Cross Country

The Cross-Country team put out a lot of effort this season, which proved to be rewarding for everyone involved. The team as a whole worked together and grew, yet at the same time many individuals developed their talents as well.

Peter Hanratty and Shagg Makino showed exceptional talent, and wrapped up a great season by running at the Sectional meet. These two will be back next year to help pull off another successful year. Donald Barnhart, in his first season running, showed tremendous courage and growing talent. He will be another one to keep our eyes on next year. The rest of the boys' team worked hard and as the season progressed, their determination paid off with some great team performances.

The girls' team was once again at the top. Andrea Talley and Brenda Brinkerhoff led the team and found themselves also leading most of the races. Andrea qualified for State after a very hard and challenging year. Brenda was consistently performing with great strength and talent, promising the girls' team a great season next year. The trio of Julies — Julie McMillan, Julie Janusz and Julie Schult — along with freshman Jana Kramer also put in a lot of time and hard work throughout the season.

Mike McCollom, coach of both the boys' and girls' teams, was very pleased with the results of the season and believes that the team learned a lot about running, working together, and just how strong a team can be when reaching for goals.

This guy doesn't know that "Trouble" is coming!

Watch out — Here comes "Double Trouble"!

Oh no, not another photographer!

The Conference meet at Dawson Lake is off to a roaring start, and Uni finishes in second place.

Peter accepts his medal for fourth place.

Shagg also gets a medal for seventh place.

Varsity Basketball

Kneeling: Josh Paley (mgr.), Jake Stake, Yukio Nishida, Shagg Makino, Chris DeCardy, Masao Nishida, and Steve Rader. Standing: Coach Mike Lindemann, Peter Hanratty, Ken Parker, Jim LaFave, Marc Meyer, Scott Levy, John Gleichman, Ned Watts, Steve Schran, and Assistant Coach Mike McCollom.

Up Up and in the hoop!

We had a really tough Varsity Team this year under the coaching of Mike Lindeman and Assistant Coach Mike McCollum. The efforts of the players, along with the assistance of the coaches has led to the best record we've had in many, many years (Yay!) Because of the strong team we had, many of our good players will be back again next year. Thanks to everyone for their fantastic support of the team.

Chances are he didn't make it.

The Junior Varsity Team was very enthusiastic this year and gave it their all for every game. Coach Mike McCollom kept the team's spirits up and helped through a challenging season. There were many new players on the team which made this year a valuable building year. We look forward to an even better season next year.

The efforts of the Girls Varsity Basketball Team this year helped bring out a very successful season, not necessarily in points, but rather in individual achievement and teamwork. Coach Tom Ball spent a lot of time helping the girls develop their skills and improving the team as a whole. Thanks also goes to the fans who came to the home games this year.

By beating Ridgefarm at the Oakland Tournament, the girls came in third.

Gymnastics

This was the first year for the Gymnastics team, as it was created over the summer. In actual competition, we had 3 male competitors — Rick Campione, Isaac Lieberman, and Steve Rader — and 2 females — Nancy Brown and Angie Friedman. They practiced in the gym daily, competed in the State Gymnastics District Meets in the Spring and Winter, and had a lot of fun overall.

Steve executes a straddle 'L' on the mat.

Seniors Enjoy Their Final Year . . .

Class History

We enter Uni bright-eyed and bushy-tailed. The library annex becomes the favorite gathering spot, since we had no place in the lounge. Chess and Dungeons and Dragons are constantly played in the second floor hallway and the library annex. Mrs. Johnson teaches us the meaning of the word "livid" in English class. While in room 206, we discover the remainder of a past jello fight on the ceiling (which, incidentally, is still there.) The Toms machine arrives in the south stairwell, but is soon moved beside the office, so Mr. Royer can keep it out of trouble. All the girls swoon over Josh Parker. We experience our first Uni High Curriculum experiments; Sub Advisory and Aesthetics classes. They were a roaring success — so successful, in fact, that they were not offered again, because their excellence could never be repeated. JB takes up with the freshmen, because he is too good for us. George Wood teaches us about winners and losers. He also teaches us the proper manner in which to make a class discussion violent. Grace is a JV cheerleader. The first Angora week is held. A wonderful trip is taken by many to Lake Geneva. There we learn a great deal about farms and quarries, and Mr. Dirks informs us how not to do stupid things. A few excitable girls see a "killer fag" and Jake chases it with a stick.

Freshman year begins with the addition of Beverly, Nancy, Howard, Garth, Alan, Mike L., Carolyn, Jeanne, Peter K., and Steve B. to our class. However, we lose Jack Lieby and Andrew. Everyone wonders if David and Nancy are twins. Our class splits into cliques. We have numerous rivaling factions. The term freshman girls is coined due to the actions of a famous freshman cheerleader group. This is led by Jeanne, who took over in a big way. A big fight starts with the Mob against Grace and Chimene. Gossiping is a favorite way to pass the hours. The Chess club is formed, and the members soon become too good for the rest of us. We can tell because they never seem to want to talk to anybody but themselves. Everyone catches up on their sleep in Mr. Sammon's Social Studies class. The dumb people of the class are taught by Mrs. Jockusch. One day, she kicks the whole class out. Her independent learning program teaches us little. But we do learn that 11:17 is Cannibal time and nobody's legs are safe under tables. Christy Storter teaches us the mysteries of sex education, and shows us only the good films. Many of us take mysterious trips to collect Boneyard water. A new language called "Quasi-Modo is created by some of the people who have nothing better to do with their time. Howard goes to Kent State protests. Everyone thinks Beverly is a teacher. Beth draws pigs on the blackboards. The phone is moved to the South stairwell, and the Tom's machine is moved to where the phone was. Our JV Basketball team wins a game. Ted and Garth are lured into a world of corruption. We get our first view of Mrs. Bailey, who teaches us about many fascinating Illinois poets. After 30 pages of Carl Sandberg, we are up to our ears in corn, sunsets, and the prairie. We learn to write our own poems. Many Penguin poems appear, and John G. informs us that it is not easy being German. Mike D. begins his rise to power. Alan Robertson has unique views on life. He treats us to them in his English speeches on "The right wrong way to go camping, and "It just ain't right!" Brian and Grace are our first couple. Andrea and Josh Parker have a pudding fight. JB upsets Mrs. Hoag, which results in her repeatedly throwing chalk at him. Theo is a Rabbitt.

We begin Sophomore year. Garth, Howard,
Alan, and JB leave us, but we gain Jimmy Talley, Jon R., Lutz A., Ilana R., and Ricky. Andrew returns from France. The Varsity Basketball Team again wins no games. Paul T. finally breaks 5-feet.

We chase off Mr. Scholnik, the Social Studies teacher, in the record time of 9 weeks. His replacement, Rebecca Nelson, after much work, learns to love us. Chuck S. is caught smiling at a girl. Everyone is learning to "step, step, one, two, three" and fox trot from studly Mike Torcia and Miss Elliot. Louie's Room is the cool hangout, until Mr. Royer catches on and locks it up. Beth Hostetter is the coolest English teacher because she gives assignments like plays instead of essays. Jon R. leaves mid-year seeking higher education elsewhere. Jon Atkin turns in a 7-line Utopia essay. He says it so short because "he writes small." We patent the class trip and take a day at Mariotts. We have 2 chemistry teachers — Mrs. Meins and "Dan the Man" Kampmeier. Before first quarter was over, half of Mrs. Meins' students switched to Kampmeier's class — but he doesn't really know what is going on. Jon A. flies UFO's during Social Studies. The Tom's machine is bolted to the wall because the gifted students figured out how to get free food. Certain sophomore girls discover older men, and many couples are formed. The Bathroom Bomb Squad is formed, and the members blow up a toilet. They are suspended for a day to atone for their sins.

Junior year begins with the loss of Louie, Colette, Lutz, Jon A., and Ilana. We also lose Brian Z. and gain Fritz. JB returns as half-junior/half-sophomore, and we also gain Vino. Everyone gets wrapped up in PSAT, MMSQT, ACT, SAT, and CBS (College B.S.). Derek teaches Physics to Mr. Dannels. Sheer chaos breaks loose when the Basketball team beats Tri-Valley to break our 96-game losing streak. The Junior players were Masao, John G., Jim L., and Andrew K. The next day, we get free pizza and ice cream and no one goes to class. Becky Nelson teaches us another year of Social Studies. For some strange reason, certain tables have identical quiz answers. Mrs. Bailey returns to teach us to "glimpse" the "Logos" in tragedy. Gary Newman takes over our U.S. History class for a month, and mispronounces "sectionalism" for "sexualism", and thoroughly makes a fool of himself. Four lucky Juniors take a course in Renaissance literature and have their personalities described to them; Carolyn is a dunce, Ted is a fool, Rick is a lecher, and Peter is a computer brain. The Lounge gets a new jukebox, but because of our barbaric nature, it soon breaks. Stevie R. takes up with a Freshman girl. Jeanne and Josh are the first to get their drivers licenses, and they disco down the road together. Jake becomes a punk rocker. We all come out of the fragmented groups of adolescence and become friends. Holly is a political groupie. Vino and Rick aquire a taste for 7-Up. The Agora week camping trip is a blast. We play football in the snow, survive on peanut butter and graham crackers, and are intrigued by the sound of objects sliding across the frozen lake. Jake rips his pants climbing the teams course wall. Chuck becomes Chud. Jake gives speeches on "How to be a stud", and "How English is like Meadow Muffins". We take our overnight class trip to Six Flags. Nobody goes to sleep, and other people leave the hotel because of rowdier ones in our group. Paul writes the yearbook. Everyone goes to Prom in groups, catching rides with Seniors.

We are finally cool Seniors (but we've been cool all along). We lose Peter K., Winnie, and Ann to the U of I. Others who leave are: JB, Jeanne, Jenny, and Vino. Carolyn is a senate page in Wash. D.C. for half a year, and Ricky goes crazy. We gain nobody for the first time in 5 years. Mrs. Suslick teaches us to budget our time. Mr. Christiaanse teaches math and staunchly refuses to let us call him "Vance". We settle for "Mr. C" instead. Mr. Frazier uses his esoteric teaching methods in Senior Biology, and patents the infamous "Arbitrary Grading System". Steve Schran and Jake become teenage heartthrobs. Amy spaces out. Andrea turns into a Sophomore. Beth becomes an opera star. Ted, James, Mike L., and Paul T. are rock stars. The sixth period English class goes on a patriotism kick. Ginta is perfect. Phil informs us that there is no physical benefit to change clothes. Paul D. persecutes people. Chimene is a stud-ess. Masao finally fights back on the basketball court. Mike Dorning, having completed his rise in power at Uni, sets his sights for the White House. And one final thing, "WE BAD!".

Class Will

I, Beverly Joy, leave my library job to anyone desperate enough to take it, and my locker stickers to the next occupant of locker 14.

I, Brian Zimmerman, leave my debts, with care and feeding instructions, to whomever can afford them.

I, Nan Babakhanian, leave my millions of "you-know-what" to Julie "she — already — knows what" Stenzel, and my tremendous window shopping ability to Rachel Friedberg.

I, Derek Kumar, leave my physics notes to Mr. Dannels, who needs them more than I.

I, Andrew Kolodziej, leave my 20-foot fade-away hook shot to Ken Parker; my blond hair to Maggie Williams; and finally, my speech making ability to Albert Liu.

I, Ted Purves, leave my musical taste to Maggie Williams, who really needs it badly. I pass on my singing ability, which I received as a freshman from Lippold Haken, to Chris Decardy, and I leave my undying love to all the girls in the school — which should be divided equally among themselves.

I, Theo Merritt, leave my slyness to Scott Levy, and my purple sweatshirt to Barb Seely.

I, Jim LaFave, leave my height to Albert Liu and my clothes to Fred Worley.

I, Chimene Robbins, leave my huge biceps to whomever takes over the lounge.

I, James Peltz, leave my presidency of the apathy club to Scott Levy and my hard working attitude to Yukio Nishida.

I, Andrea Talley, am leaving nothing to anybody — I plan to take it all with me.

We, Steven Berkson and Grace Williams, leave our undying love to Opher Donchin and Missy Ganus.

I, Ginta Zvilius, leave nothing. I'm taking it all with me.

I, John Gleichman, leave the Gleichman Mystique to Ned Watts.

I, Paul G. Davis, leave my hair to the male members of the classes of 82, 83, 84, and 85 — if anyone ever figures out who they are; my strength to Chris Anderson, who needs it, and my personality to Annie Jong, who's too nice.

I, Steve Schran, leave my sex appeal, which I received from Dov Cole, to Opher Donchin, and my tropical trips to Yukio Nishida, who could use a break.

I, Stephen Rader, leave my athletic ability, to William Jockush, my nose to my sister, and my mellowness to Wendy Applequist.

I, Amy Pearson, hereby bequeath my outstanding ability to budget my time to Yukio Nishida, my appreciation of Country music to Peter Hantatty, and the cute guys at Dom's to Brenda Brinkerhoff.

I, Mike Levy, leave my personality to Peter Hantatty, and my sister to the class of '89.

I, Jake Stake, am too stupid to think of something clever to leave to someone.

I, Julie Schult, leave my understanding to Nina Stratton, my first name to Ms. Stenzel, Ms. Janus, Ms. McMillan, and anyone else who wants it, and my fate in the hands of God.

I, Rick Campione, leave my gymnastics ability to Andy Propst, and my love of life to Mr. Royer and you-know-who.

I, Masao Nishida, leave my way with women to my brother.

I, David Brown, leave my clean hair and a bottle of shampoo to Theo Gray, and my moral fiber to Opher Donchin and associates.

I, Beth Shinall, leave my astonishing mathematics talent to Steve Chien.

I, Paul Travis, hereby bequeath the tradition of a promptly delivered yearbook to yearbook staffs of the future.

I, Brian Brinkerhoff, leave my common sense to Fred Worley — I know it isn't much, but he needs all he can get — and my driving skills to Jonno Peltz.

Juniors

The elected class officials this year were Carolyn Shapiro (President), Mary Choldin (Representative), and Marc Meyer (Secretary/Treasurer). The junior class sponsor was Patrick McGloughlin. They sponsored the Halloween Dance, Prom, and co-sponsored Spring Fling. In order to sponsor all these dances, they had to have some fund raisers. Over the summer, they had a car wash and they held lots of bake sales (or were supposed to have held lots) throughout the school year. Because we've finally started winning basketball games, more juniors are going to them. They even started a very enthusiastic cheer which caught on quickly.

Sophomores

The elected class officials were Maggie Williams (President), Julie McMillan (Representative), and Aleya Rahman (Secretary/Treasurer). Their class sponsor was the beloved Chris Butler. The sophomore's main events this year were sponsoring the Christmas Dance, Valentine's Day Dance, and their class trip to Marriots Great America. Their fund raising activities included cake raffles, a summertime car wash, and, of course, the usual bake sales. As usual, they specialized in being loud and obnoxious.

The elected class officers this year were Alix Wengert (President), Sarah Williams (Representative), and Leah Grossman (Secretary/Treasurer). Of course, their class sponsor was the counselling office — more specifically, Patty Gatto. They held three bake sales in preparation for paying for some of next year's dances. Some of their more exciting moments at Uni included being physically removed from the student lounge, getting deposited in garbage cans ('dumped'), and having paint fights.

Closing

I began working on the 1981 yearbook in the spring of 1980. After having done a large portion of the 1980 yearbook, I knew what a large job it was producing a yearbook, and knew that I had a lot of work to do in order to make this yearbook successful and punctual. I spent the summer making notes for the upcoming year.

We got started rather late, due to red tape in our changing publishing companies. After the first staff meeting, I realized that lack of experience leads to confusion and lack of interest. Soon, the staff of 15 dwindled to a size of 5 dedicated persons and their loyal sponsor. Throughout the year, we spent incredible numbers of hours working on pictures, layouts, copy; those things required to make a yearbook. I truly hope there is a greater interest taken in the yearbook next year, so that a few people do not end up doing all the work again.

I would like to thank Lisi Edwards, Heather Greenberg, YoYo Nishida, Chimene Robbins, and Andra Johnson. These people comprised the yearbook staff, and they put in a lot of time into this book. I would like to thank the photographers. Photographs are the most important part of a yearbook, and a lot of time was put into the taking, developing, and printing of them. I would also like to thank our company representative, Bob McElwee, for the assistance he has given us. Finally, I would like to thank my mom, for her endless understanding help and support.

I sincerely hope that you enjoy this yearbook, and that it provides you with many happy memories in the years to come.
